Mills Construction receives national award

Mills Construction Inc. wins the 2016 Associated General Contractors (AGC) of America Build America Award, in the Building New Under $10 million category, for the Outdoor Adventure Center (OAC) of South Dakota. The Build America Award honors the nation's most outstanding construction project, demonstrating the very best when it comes to construction excellence, building a better America and improving quality of life of the local community.

Each project reflects the crucial combination of contractor excellence with talented workers and quality safety programs. Build America Award recipients exemplify the best in the construction world. The Build America award is considered the "Oscars" of the construction industry.

The National Award winning facility, OAC of South Dakota, is a 29,530 square foot regional facility located on 3.8 acres of land in the Dakota Nature Park in Brookings. It includes precision sports ranges, classrooms, conference space, meeting rooms and offices. The non-profit organization provides their customers with education, skills and real world experience related to our Dakota heritage.

AGC of America presented the award to representatives of Mills Construction team members during AGC's 97th Annual Convention on Thursday, March 10 at the Grand Hyatt in San Antonio.

A celebration event that will be open to the entire community is in the planning stages.
